

WAY OPENED FOR AMERICAN UNOFFICIAL AID IN SOLVING REPARATION RIDDLE OF EUROPEAN NATIONS

WASHINGTON, December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—The way has been opened at last for American unofficial aid in solving the reparation riddle of Europe.

After many months of discussion and many failures, the European allies and Germany have hit upon a plan of inquiry which is looked upon favorably by Washington.

While the United States government cannot itself appoint official members of the two investigating reparation committees to be set up under the announced today at the White House, President Coolidge and his advisers would "view with favor" the acceptance of places on the committee by American experts.

Presumably the result of this decision will be an immediate consummation of the reparation commission plan by the designation of Americans versed in the economic troubles of the world to take their places on the committee along with representatives of the other powers.

The determining factor in shaping the course of the American government was the unanimity reached at last among the allies on a method of employing American aid. For months officials have declared they were ready to help as soon as there was complete agreement on the method and there is no reason to believe that President Coolidge views the method adopted and the prospect of American aid as making a long forward stride in the promotion of better relations with Europe.

In a large sense Mr. Coolidge believes the development is a substantial accomplishment toward realization of his desire to help in a recent message to congress to "see France paid and Germany revived."

This statement was issued at the White House in explanation of the reasons impelling the president and his advisers in their decision.

"The White House has been informed that the reparation committee is considering the establishment of two expert committees, one to consider the means of balancing the budget of Germany and the measures to be taken to stabilize her currency; the other to take up the question of the capital which has been removed from Germany."

Holiday Disbursements To Stockholders Total 50 Millions

NEW YORK, December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Holiday disbursements to stockholders in American industrial and railroad corporations in the form of extra, increased or resumed dividends, exclusive of the regular quarterly payments declared during December, will total well in excess of $50,000,000, according to reliable estimates in the financial district.

Total dividend disbursements by such corporations, which include practically all of those having wide stock distribution in December is expected to exceed $150,000,000, while the year's dividends probably will aggregate more than $1,000,000,000 as compared with about $750,000,000 in 1922.

Interest payments to stockholders, including disbursements of this character on government obligations, average approximately $200,000,000 a month or $2,400,000,000 for the year.

Cleveland Appears Certain Of Meeting

WASHINGTON, December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Developments in the contest for the Republican presidential nomination in 1924 so far limited openly to the announced candidacy of President Coolidge and Senator Johnson, of California, almost overshadowed the work of the opening session today of the Republican National Committee.

The support given by administration leaders to Cleveland's bid for the convention—a choice which appears to be sure of ratification by the committee—promised to take much of the usual uncertainty from the committee's proceedings. Behind the scenes, however, with the campaign managers of both President Coolidge and Senator Johnson busily engaged in conferences, the real Republican contest of 1924 was starting into full stride.

South Dakota, in view of the endorsement given President Coolidge over Senator Johnson in its recent Republican proposal convention, looks as an immediate factor in the presidential nomination development. Within a few days, President Coolidge and Senator Johnson are expected by personal action to enter the lists for the South Dakota primary endorsement. Personal letters filling acceptance are understood here to be required by December 15 from the candidates who desire to enter the South Dakota primary, and for statements are being prepared by both President Coolidge and Senator Johnson.

Shoeworkers Near Terms

HAVERHILL, MASS., December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Students of dispute in the shoe manufacturing industry in this city which threatened to lead to an almost complete shut down upon the expiration of the present agreement in January, appeared probable today with the announcement that a compromise agreement had been drawn up by representatives of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union, the Haverhill Shoe Manufacturers' Association and a Citizens' Committee.

The proposed agreement calls for a five and one-half day week for six months in the year and a five day week the other six months and for determination of wages and working conditions by an arbitration board.

The present parley is theoretically at the initiative of the reparation commission but actually they are a prolongation of the negotiations over the proposal made by Secretary of State Hughes in his New Haven speech which was made the basis of an invitation to the committee.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—William Pinkerton, world famous detective, died here today at the Hotel Biltmore.

The board organized last June, serves as a clearing house between American manufacturers and the British, which comprises Michigan and the south shore of Lake Erie.

Coolidge Supporters Open Drive To Carry California

SACRAMENTO, CALIF., December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Supporters of President Coolidge in the campaign for the Republican presidential nomination yesterday started what they declared to be a "baby" movement in California for their candidates, with the formation of the Republican League of Sacramento county in this city, where Senator Hiram W. Johnson is running.

Two similar organizations have been formed in California and members will be listed after a meeting of Coolidge followers to be held in San Francisco tomorrow, says President Charles G. Johnson of the League.

Republicans in attendance at the Sacramento meeting of the league today started out with a membership drive, which was enthusiastic in their declarations that California will send a delegation to the national convention pledged to Coolidge.

Formation of the league followed the organization a week ago of a Johnson-for-President Club, sponsored by the Sacramento County Central Committee, which, Coolidge followers assert, is controlled by Johnson supporters.

High School Boys Strike

FORTSMITH, O., December 11.—(By the United Press)—Four hundred high school students "cut" classes and paraded streets protesting the action of the board of education by which a Catholic parochial school is permitted to use the public high school gymnasium for basketball practice. Waving an American flag over their heads student leaders, declared they would not return to school until the board of education cancelled the contract with the Catholic school. The student strike culminates a bitter fight of antagonism between students backed by a faction of citizens and the board of education. Several nights ago a crowd of a thousand men and boys gathered at the gym when the Catholic boys were to practice. Trouble was averted when some one cut the electric lights and left the gymnasium in darkness.

Rail Crews At Quizz

ELITE, PA., December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Ten railroad men, the crews of two sections of the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited, when the fast train was wrecked on a grade crossing near Forest, N. Y., early Sunday morning, with a loss of nine lives, came to Erie today to face officials of the road and tell what they knew of the fatal crash. Among these was Charles Patterson, of Buffalo, who for two score years has been at the throttle of many fast trains. His record was clean until Sunday, when, during a driving rain and a heavy fog, his train plowed into a section of the Limited which had halted momentarily to investigate an automobile accident. Road officials have stated that Patterson drove his train past warning signals.

Axe Man A Prisoner

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—With the arrest of Fred Glover today and the finding of a blood-stained hatchet and a pistol in his room, county officers believe that the long hunt for Birmingham's axe-man, has ended.

Glover was taken to the Birmingham General Hospital where he was identified by Mrs. Edwin Sparks as the man who attacked her and her husband late Sunday evening.

The hatchet had a short handle, making it easy to carry in the large pocket of overalls. Glover recently served a sentence on a charge of burglary and grand larceny.

Birmingham's axe assaults have claimed twenty-four victims. The attacks have run in three parallel series in which an axe or iron pipe has been used. Fourteen have been killed and fifteen wounded in axe attacks on storekeepers; nine have been killed and three wounded in axe assaults on white men and negro women and one has been killed and one wounded in the iron pipe assaults.

Treaties Go to Senate

WASHINGTON, December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Several treaties, negotiated during the recess of congress, including the two claims conventions with Mexico, were sent to the senate today by President Coolidge.

The S. R. O. sign might well have been hung in front of the High School building last night, when more than a thousand music lovers greeted the Cincinnati Symphony with Fritz Reiner conducting. From the first strains of the cello, in the opening measures of the weird and mystic Oriental music of Goldmark's Overture, "Sakuntala," to the closing notes of the sensuous melody of the Barcarolle from Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman," the audience sat under the spell of the charm woven by Reiner's baton.

Reiner never loses sight of the intellectual demands of his score, but he does not stop there; he makes those demands serve his purpose of giving to his audience the meaning in his selections. According to an almost universal custom the heaviest number on the program was given first. The "Sakuntala" Overture is full of tonal color and the terrific climax almost swept us to our feet. Reiner makes music a living, vital thing, telling a thrilling message.

Following this with the sharply contrasting Elzet suite, "Children's Play," the orchestra completely captivated the audience with the rhythmic measures of the "March" and the sustained tones of the "Cradle Song," played with muted strings. That Reiner's organization has an appreciation of humor in music was ably demonstrated in their interpretation of the rapidly gyrating "Top."

The audience proved again the well known fact that most of the best things with which we are familiar, by going into ecstasies over the Barcarolle from the "Tales of Hoffman," that lovely sensuous gondola and moonlight song.

Miss Faye Ferguson, the talented young pianist from Ironton, was warmly welcomed by audience and orchestra alike. Following her skillful performance of the graceful Saint-Saens' Piano Concerto in G Minor, the conductor graciously gave the soloist his hand and complimented her on her performance.

Miss Ferguson has a remarkable technique that was fully adequate to meet the demands of the task and sweep of the "Presto," though we thought her tones loveliest in the brilliant runs of the "Allegretto scherzando." Miss Ferguson's winsome personality and charming stage presence will be invaluable assets in placing her in the front rank of women pianists, and her performance last night indicated that she has a brilliant future before her.

The members of the Ladies' Musicales are to be congratulated and heartily thanked for bringing such an attraction as the Cincinnati Symphony to Portsmouth. The success of the ticket sale has guaranteed that we will also hear the famous Jenny Lind concert in January.

"Because of the building of an additional platform to take care of the orchestra, it was impossible to dim the house lights for last night's performance, as, lacking the footlights, the musicians in the front row would not have been able to read their scores. However, the Musicales assures us that when the lovely Frieda Hempel sings here next month, this matter will be changed."

DR. SEITZ PLEADS NOT GUILTY

CINCINNATI, Dec. 11.—Dr. William Seitz, Portsmouth, appeared in U. S. district court here today and pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic law. Bond was placed at $5,000 after Assistant U. S. District Attorney Abrams declared the case was the most aggravated violation of the narcotic act which had occurred in the southern district of Ohio.

U. S. District Judge Hickenlooper said it was his original intention to make the bond $10,000, but since the assistant district attorney requested $5,000 he would make it that.

Dr. Seitz was indicted last week for failing to appear in court yesterday to plead to the charge in the indictment, and a capias for his arrest was issued. He appeared voluntarily in court today. The case probably will be heard the third week in January, Judge Hickenlooper said.

Attorney T. C. Beatty, counsel for Dr. Seitz, stated last night that the reason Dr. Seitz did not appear in court Monday was due to the fact that his bondsmen were out of the city. It is presumed they returned today.

Court House

The accused will be defended by Attorney W. R. Sprague.

Suit on Lost Note

Suit to recover the sum of $210, with interest from November, 1922, claimed to be due on a promissory note, which, it is alleged, was lost or stolen last June, was brought in Common Pleas court Tuesday by Joshua Hays, suing through Attorney George W. Sheppard against W. O. Shiveley.

Judge Stephenson Coming

Judge Will E. Stephenson, of West Union, will come to town during the week of December 17, if we are numbered to-day, to hear several cases on the special docket in Common Pleas court.

Mrs. Bonnie Seeks Divorce, Etc.

Bonnie, electrical mechanic, Sciotoville, whom she married in June, 1922.

Plaintiff in her petition filed through Attorney E. F. Kimble says that in disregard of his marital duties, and without fault on her part, Bonnie has, without justification, been willfully absent from her for more than three years, besides, she complains of intemperance, gross neglect and failure to provide for her and their children.

Injunction Modified

Upon application of plaintiff to the injunction suit of S. D. Ruggles, dentist, against Daniel A. Herard, and other local physicians and surgeons of Hempstead and enemy, Judge Thomas, in common pleas court Tuesday entered an order modifying the temporary restraining order to the extent that nothing that the order contained shall prevent, prohibit or restrain the defendant, D. A. Herard, from practicing or submitting charges or appearing against plaintiff, S. D. Ruggles, before the American Medical association, of which association plaintiff is a member; nor shall such order be construed in any way controlling the proceedings of the American Medical association in hearing such charges.

N. AND W. ENGINEER SCALDED

H. Smith, a well-known N. and W. engineer, residing on Center street, was badly scalded about the face early Tuesday morning when a globe valve on his engine blew out while his train, extra eastbound 1320, was near Coal Grove. Smith was taken to Marling hospital in Ironton, where his injuries were dressed. He was later brought to his home on N. and W. passenger train No. 15 this afternoon.

He was directly in the path of the valve when it let go. He was enveloped in a cloud of steam and had a close call from being scalded to death. Some apprehension is felt that his eyes will be affected by burns he suffered this morning.

Pre-Christmas Sale of Millinery at

TOMORROW is going to be a big day in our Hat section—every winter hat in the store is going to be placed at drastical reductions. Four prices only for choice of the entire stock, namely $2.95, $3.95, $4.95 and $6.95.

All are Hats not only suitable but smart for wear during the next two winter months. They are distinctly this winter's styles. Of velvet, latter's plush and felt, some are fur trimmed, many are adorned with feathers and ribbons and the like.

In short, you'll like them and you'll want more than one of them. So bear in mind tomorrow—Tomorrow is the day. Kline's is the place. Six Ninety Five is the most you can pay for the best and most expensive winter Hat in stock.

Such Smart Hats
They Are of Satin, Taffeta

And that isn't all. There is quite a few different stylings that every individual type is sure to find becoming selection. There are high crowned effects—Hats inspired by the Russian Moyn age—Cloches and Turbans; all of rich silks in black, brown and other smart Spring shades.

The saucy tilt of a brim, a perky feather, or a veritable flower garden effect lends piquancy and chic to these new Spring millinery adaptations. You'll be surprised at the strictly moderate pricings too.

Smart Jacquettes
Reduced Now 20 Per Cent

One of the interesting things about the Jacquette is the way it takes on dignity or jauntness according to the wearer; that's why it is such a favorite with Miss in her teens as well as with her mother.

A welcome Christmas gift to either of them would be a Jacquette of caracul cloth in the bronze tone which is rivalling fawn, beige and platinum at the leading furriers. Seal, Astrachan and Nutria effects are obtainable, too. Some are cut surplus fashion, with side fastening at the hipband; others are double-breasted and snug-collared.

They are originally priced attractively enough to make one feel eager to possess one, and since they are Now Reduced still, you must have one sure.

CHLO ALPHEA A KNOPPING CHLO ALPHEA A KNOPPING

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hubert Stane, discharged convict, saves the life of Helen Yardley when her canoe drifts into dangerous waters. Together they start to walk the trail to the camp of Helen's uncle near a northern post of the Hudson Bay Company. They stop at a deserted cabin and at night the cabin is attacked by Indians.

Helen is abducted and Stane is left for dead. Meanwhile, a trapper, revives Stane and the two go in pursuit of Helen's abductors. Gerald Ainley, in love with Helen, shoots her captors and rescues the girl. Stane and Gerald meet Anderson of the N. W. M. P. They follow Ainley.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. But of distrust she gave no sign when Ainley approached her, bearing food and coffee. She accepted the situation as if it were the most everyday one in the world; and she listened to the few words that he had to say, with real interest.

A short time later they resumed their journey and traveled steadily for some time more than an hour; then almost in the dark they pitched camp for the night. A substantial meal was prepared of which Helen partook in the shelter of a little tent which had been erected; then when she had finished the meal, she seated herself by the big fire which had been built.

Ainley also seated himself less than a yard from her; and without giving him a chance of asking for her story, she instantly demanded his.

Ainley would have preferred to hear her story first; but he did not demur to her suggestion, and with a little deprecatory laugh he began. "It is not very easy to talk of one's doings, but I will do my best to avoid boastfulness."

Then, carefully picking his words, he described the anxiety her non-return to her uncle's camp had given rise to; and the preliminary search made by himself and the Indian Joe. "Then he broke off sharply. 'You were saved from the river, somehow, by that fellow Stane, who was up at Fort Malsum, were you not?'

"Yes! How did you know?"

"I got his description from a half-breed who had met and hailed you going up the river in a canoe towards Old Fort Winslow."

"But we met no half-breed," said Helen quickly, her distrust awakened in full force.

"You met no half-breed?" The surprise in Ainley's face was quite genuine, as Helen saw, and she realized that whatever was to come, this part of the man's story was quite true.

"Perhaps he was the man who stole our canoe," said Helen.

"Yes," answered Ainley, "that will be it. But—" he broke off without finishing. "Anyway," he continued after a moment, "following his statement, I went up to Old Fort Winslow, but found no sign of you, then back by another and a quicker route that I might tell your uncle of the lack of news, and organize a regular search. After that, I started to beat the country round about steadily. For weeks I searched, and all in vain, then one day an Indian girl came with a story of a white man and woman living in a cabin on a lake, and though she did not know their names she was able to tell me that this man and woman were Stane and you."

"Who was the girl?" asked Helen quickly.

"It was that Indian girl who was up at Fort Malsum."

"Missed?" cried Helen.

"That I believe was her name. She looked on Stane as her lover, and she did you the honor of being jealous of you!" Ainley laughed as he spoke.

"And when you heard," asked Helen, "that I was with you, did you not waste time?"

"When I heard, I did not waste time. I made a bee-line for the cabin on the lake, taking the girl with me. I arrived there last night."

"How long were you on the way?" interrupted Helen suddenly.

"Four days."

"And Miss Stane was with you all the time?"

"Of course," answered Ainley, "I said, 'Who was our guide?'

"I said," answered Helen quietly. She made no further comment on the Indian girl, but she knew now that Ainley had departed from whatever truth there was in his narrative, for Miss Stane, on the sure evidence of her own eyes had been at the Indian encampment when he claimed she had been with him. She listened quickly whilst Ainley continued:

"As I was saying, I arrived in the neighborhood of the cabin last night, to find you gone."

"And Mr. Stane?" she asked almost breathlessly. "Did you find him?"

"I did not see him?"

Ainley shook his head. "No, I did not see him myself, but one of my men turned a body over that was lying in the snow. It was that of a white man, who could be no other than Stane!

"We found an Indian in the snow, who had been wounded in the fight, as he told us, and our pressure gave me the information that you had been carried away by a half-breed of the name of Chignok, who, as the Indian averred, was making for the lake where we rescued you. We arrived there in good time, and—well, you know the rest, Helen."

"Not quite," answered the girl in a listless, toneless voice. "You have not yet told me what this man Chignok proposed to do with me."

"Well, the wounded Indian told us that he had fallen violently in love with you, and that he proposed to make you his squaw."

"At?"

Ainley interpreted the exclamation in his own way, but looking at the girl was surprised by a look which had come into her face. Her listlessness had fallen from her. There was a look of absorption about her which puzzled him, and he wondered what she was thinking of. He did not know what her captor had revealed to her, and so never dreamed the truth, which was that Helen was thinking that for the second time he had fallen from the truth in his narrative.

"Tell me one thing," she said, when you arrived at the cabin the attack was quite over."

"Quite," he answered.

"And you did not take part in the fighting? You fired no shots at the attackers?"

"No," he answered. "They had gone when we arrived, all except the wounded Indian who gave me the information."

"Then who was it?" she cried.

"Who was it? I do not understand what you mean, Helen."

"Some one fired on the Indians from the wood, and he kept on firing as the Indians bound me to the sled, and even after we had begun to flee."

Ainley rose abruptly to his feet. It was very clear to the girl that the information she had given him had astonished him. His manner betrayed perturbation as he replied in short, jerky sentences: "You amaze me! What you say is—most astonishing. Are you sure? You have not dreamed this by any chance?"

"If I have," answered Helen, "an-

heard the shots, I thought that Mr.

Stane had fired them; it was the half-breed who told me that I was mistaken, and that the shots had been fired by some one in the forest."

The girl turned to Ainley suddenly, and there was a flash in her eyes and a look on her face that startled him.

"Dead or alive," she said quickly, "Mr. Stane is more to me than you ever can be!"

"Helen! there was a note of angry protest in Ainley's voice. 'You cannot think what you are saying. You must have forgotten how I love you.'"

"No," answered the girl deliberately. "I have not forgotten."

CHAPTER XXIII

A Surprise for Ainley

WITHOUT preamble Helen began the narrative of all that had happened to her from the time she had left her uncle's camp to inspect the heavily wooded country.

When she gave the account of Stane's accident at the deadfall and of the camp she had made there, Ainley broke out in exclaim: "That explains how it was we never found you. We must have passed within a very few miles of you."

"You were once within a quarter of a mile of me."

"How do you know that?" he cried.

"Because I saw you and the Indian Joe pitch your camp on the shore of the lake."

"You saw—" he began, and then stopped staring at her with incredulous eyes.

"Yes," I watched you make your fire, and then I went back to camp, and put on my own fire."

Ainley rose suddenly to his feet. "Our acquaintances would say—" he began, with a note of bitter malice in his voice, but Helen interrupted him.

"I wonder what our acquaintances would say if they knew everything about the crying for which Hubert Stane became a convict?"

"You believe some lying tale of Stane's?" said Ainley, in a surging attempt to cover up his own discomfiture.

"I believe what he told me. I would have believed it on his word alone, but fortunately the matter does not depend on that word only. There is evidence, and I know where that evidence is, and I will tell you what I am going to do. What we get to Fort Malsum, I shall get Mr. Rowell to equip an expedition, and I shall take to the world, in order to clear the memory of the man whom you have so deeply wronged."

"There will be no need for that, fortunately, Miss Yardley," said a voice behind her.

The girl jumped to her feet in surprise, and Ainley took a quick step forward into the circle of the firelight. It was the mounted policeman, Dandy Anderson, and behind him came another man at whom Helen stared for a moment incredulously, then with a great cry of joy ran to meet him.

"Hubert! Hubert!"

"Yes," he answered, slipping on arm about her.

She rested against him well-content, and Stane's arm about her tightened its grip; then they came back to the little world about them, at the sound of the policeman's voice. (Continued in Our Next Issue)

Checker Players Are in High Gear

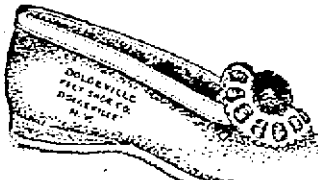

Considerable interest was centered in the match series of checkers games played at the checker club room last night, J. E. Rickey and Lester Finney have both been claimants of the county checker championship for some time past, but there has never been a series played with the title at stake. "Last night, the two stars of the club played a series of fourteen games and Rickey carried away the honors by winning twelve out of the fourteen played. But just because the championship was not at stake, hoosters of Finney claim that this does not materially change the standing of the two star players as Finney recently defeated Smith, of New Boston, five straight after Smith had just triumphed likewise in a row.

"Why Trade In the West End"

(By Mary Dedelia Crowe, Route 1, Portsmouth, Second Prize Winner in Essay Contest Conducted for the West End Improvement Association.)

We should trade in the West End because it is out of the high rent district, which enables us to get better quality at less cost, where we can compound the saving by drawing interest on it at the Portsmouth Banking company. Because the West End merchants seldom advertise "big sale" (which the customer pays for), but have a right price at all times, which insures repeated sales.

Because the majority of the West

End merchants are the oldest in the city, which gives them a better knowledge of just what the local public demands, and also assures us reliability.

Because the merchants in the West End have courteous and adequate help, which insures the best and immediate service.

Because the West End has both traction and bus service, and a commodious waiting room, where you can obtain lunch and refreshments.

Because you can see the time on the clock on St. Mary's church and thus avoid missing the car, bus or train.

Because the West End is convenient, has adequate parking space and traffic congestion is limited.

PRESIDENT HARDING EULOGIZED OVER RADIO BY HIS SUCCESSOR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—President Harding was eulogized by his successor in office, Calvin Coolidge, in an address broadcast last night by radio, as one who was eminently fitted "to serve a distracted world in a difficult period of its history."

The President spoke in his study at the White House and his address, one of the features of the nation-wide observance of Harding Memorial Week, was carried to the warthorn parts of the country. Exceptional facilities for broadcasting were provided, as all broadcasting stations were requested by the department of commerce to remain silent during the time Mr. Coolidge spoke.

Mr. Coolidge began his address with a reference to Leigh Hunt's poem, "Ben Adhem," in which an angel writes the name of him who loves his fellow man to the head of the list of "those who love the Lord."

"It will be hard to find a better picture than this of President Harding, the man we loved and mourn," said Mr. Coolidge after reciting a verse of the poem. "He loved his fellow men, and because they felt it and know it, they loved and trusted him. His whole life, from the knowledge that he had a duty to do, down to the day when a sorrowing world laid its tributes at his bier, was a continuing testimony to his devotion to them and to their faith in him."

"Some will say that such a sweet and gentle nature could only have found its setting and its opportunity for service in a strange and peculiar time. Perhaps they are right. Yet he came to the world's stage in an hour when it seemed set for other characters. The captains and the kings, the armies and the navies, the men who would have war, and the men who would have peace, had long dominated the scene. Where among them could place be made, could ear be found for this kindly, gentle, gracious soul?"

"Yet he found his place. He caught the ear of a war-torn world. He called our country back to paths of peace and gladly it came and sat in council. He pointed them the way to peace. His sincerity and frankness won to his side those who sensed the great truth of human brotherhood. So he led the way to the monumental accomplishments of the Washington conference on limitation of armament."

"The same sincerity and directness marked his program in domestic affairs. He was the steady, strong, inspiring hand of guidance and helpfulness. It was never the mailed fist of compulsion. He knew that the greatest need of the world was peace with industry and production. He asked for these, and with them the loss that had been inflicted in the years of strife. He was free from the pride of opinion, but strong in the determination of conviction. He had that calm courage which could not be overpressed, but that was firm and final when decision had been reached."

Was Criticized.

"He was criticized because his own country, under his leadership, did not move forward so fast as some wished. But when worn out by the struggle he had so bravely borne, he laid down the burden, his critics saw clearly what his leadership had accomplished. They saw that it had been a leadership forward and upward, in an era when most other countries were moving backward and downward. They saw that prosperity smiled once more on a favored land."

Multitude Feels Loss.

"It was natural that such a character, passing from the stage of life, should leave the multitude a sense of personal loss. Scarcely indeed has his name been left that feeling among so many."

"But he was not permitted to finish his task. He broke and went down under its load. In the hour of sorrow for his loss, men and women were moved to a broader charity, a relaxation of partisan excesses, a determination to be fair and moderate and reasonable. His life became, in the tragic sorrow of its end, a lesson in the value of simple and modest ways."

"We mourn him today, and we shall mourn him so long as remembrance holds before us the picture of his patience, forbearance, faith and Christian tolerance. These are rare virtues, too seldom found among the men who have the strength to rise to high places. We may well hope that his example to his own countrymen and to the world, may help greatly to bring a spirit of charity, accord and true fraternity, whereby shall be lighted the lamp of understanding to show our feet into the paths of peace on earth, good will to men. We may well consider by what means we can show our appreciation, and by what method we can best ensnare his memory."

Monday was a day of bond forfeits in Municipal court as out of twenty-two alleged offenders picked up by the police over the week-end, all but two failed to appear for trial this afternoon.

W. H. Huston, West End young man, accused of reckless driving in complaint filed by Ben Osborn, denied guilt, claiming that he had never driven and had only owned a machine since this morning. The alleged offense was committed Sunday and in view of the Huston's story the case was continued for further investigation as it appeared to be a case of mistaken identity.

George Salmon, arrested for alleged intoxication, denied guilt and was later dismissed for lack of prosecution.

Clarence Odle, charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct, failed to respond and he will be required to appear later and the complaint Elsie B. O'Brien, 24, with issuing an invalid check, was withdrawn upon payment of the costs.

These persons forfeited bonds: C. Brown, Charles Elliott, Charles Jones, Frank Suter, George Waller, William Lancaster, W. E. Bishop, Albert Bradshaw, John Patterson and Harry Kane, all for drunkenness; Basil Gully, disorderly conduct and Harry Beckman, Margaret Saunders, Alma Shugart, Ethel Williams, Elva Lunsford, Ethel Huston, Nellie Lluger and Alma Burkett, all arrested for visiting a disorderly house at 720 Eleventh street, while McKinley Baker pleaded guilty to a similar charge and was fined $10.

War Reparations Problems At Bottom of Farmers' Troubles

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—(By the A. P.)—Until settlement of the problem of the war reparations the farmers of America "will continue to suffer losses that will total as much or more than the whole amount at stake in the dispute," Gray Silver, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, today told delegates attending the fifth annual meeting of this organization.

Mr. Silver declared that American agriculture needs a strong foreign policy that will lead to open new markets, a change in the tariff to prevent discrimination, and possible provision for international border to open the German market.

Without active steps to bring agricultural relief through establishment of better markets and improved export conditions, Mr. Silver said that the American farmer gradually will become a peasant class.

Things We Need.

"The diplomacy of the day gives far too little consideration to economic matters, particularly those that concern agriculture," Mr. Silver said. "It is high time some one stood up and demanded that common sense and economic principles instead of hate, greed and petty politics be the basis of settlement of international differences."

Concluding Mr. Silver said a policy of isolation from foreign affairs "is not compatible with the best interests of our farmers who must look to other nations for an outlet for their surplus."

Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, followed with a talk in which he criticized those packing companies which are opposing the department of agriculture in its effort to investigate their books. He declared that the question raised by this opposition which he said would prevent effective enforcement of the packer and stockyards act, if successful "is going to be passed upon by the highest court in the land," and taken to congress, if necessary.

Cleveland Has First Trial Of Talking Movies

CLEVELAND, Dec. 11.—Talking movies were introduced to Cleveland theatregoers Monday tonight in what are said to be the first public tests. While still in its infancy, it was pronounced a success. Conversation and music accompanying the pictures were clearly audible as they were released by radio from the film and synchronized with the action.

It is now merely a question of mechanics, its inventor said, and its perfection is only a matter of time.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

You won't need to worry about her opening them.

Dear Miss Wise—Last year at Christmas time one of my boy friends gave me a box of candy. I have had three or four dates with him this year and I see him often. Is it necessary or proper that I remember him at this Christmas time with a gift and so, what would be suitable? I have a girl friend that has been going with a fellow for a year. How expensive a gift should she accept from him?

It isn't necessary for you to give your friend a gift, but you might remember him with a Christmas card if you care to. I think it would be all right for your friend to accept whatever present she gets, as it is not likely that she will get anything too expensive to keep.

Dear Dolly—I would like for you to tell me why there isn't an opera house in Portsmouth. I am now visiting here and in my home city there are two opera houses and nine vaudeville houses. I can't understand how the young people in this town can amuse themselves. In my city everything is open on Sunday, even the dance halls.

Dear Dolly—Do you know how to fix horse and pepper rabbit. I heard this was a good way to fix it and I would like for you to print a way to cook it that way.

I imagine you mean hoseniffer rabbit. It is made something like this: Take fresh rabbits, quarter them, let stand over night in strong salt water. Wash in hot water, layer of rabbit and layer of raw onion, sliced; bring to a boil enough vinegar to cover the rabbit. Add a few whole spices, pour over rabbit boiling hot, cover with plate, set in cool place for ten days or more. Take off, wash off onions and spices. Roll rabbit in flour, the rubbels, not yourself, brown quickly in hot butter or lard, cover with water and let simmer until done. Add fresh onions while cooking, if desired, and flour to form brown gravy.

Dear Dolly—When a personal letter comes to a girl who is a lady of age, can she give it or do they keep it until her father gets it?

If the letter is delivered at the girl's home, I see no reason why she should not get it, if she happens to be around when the mail carrier delivers it, as they are not supposed to know the ages of people who get letters or without any letters, even if they do know. In speaking of "they," are you referring to your mother, brothers or sisters? If so, and your mother gets hold of a letter she (thinks she should read, it is her privilege to open it, but it isn't necessary to hold them for your father. If you are writing to a boy, tell him not to put anything in his letters or without any letters, even for your mother to see, and then

On Thursday afternoon, from two until five o'clock, Mrs. J. J. MAH-JONGG

BY J. P. BABCOCK

Leading Mah Jongg Authority and Author of Babcock's Red Book of Rules

No. 2—Choosing East Wind and Building the Wall. Chinese formally marks the opening of the game. The 144 tiles are turned face down upon the table.

Then comes the determination of East Wind, the key or chief position. This is done by one throw of the dice all around, he who throws highest becomes the East.

Then the tiles are shuffled thoroughly. The other three winds have been automatically established by the determination of the East Wind, South always being next on

Notice that relative positions of the compass points are opposite to American compass points. This is because the Chinaman looks up and through everything, including the world.

East Wind Is Chief. East Wind, as I have said, is the chief of the game, somewhat akin to the "banker" in occidental games. When he wins, he wins double; when he loses, he loses double. However, every player, unless he ties another player, pays or collects from all other players. This will be explained more fully under "Scoring" in a later article.

After the start of the evening's play, it is not again necessary to throw the dice to determine East or West. He who is East stays East so long as he wins. When any other player wins, no matter who the East position automatically progresses to the player next on East's right (the one who has been South on the hand just played).

This player in turn stays East until he loses, when the East position again progresses to his right, etc.

Building the Wall. The next step is the building of the Chinese wall. After the tiles have been thoroughly shuffled all players draw simultaneously 17 tiles and lay them side by side in an unbroken line. Then 17 more are drawn and laid upon the first 17. After this, the four rows of 17 tiles, two tiles deep (total 34 tiles) are shovelled forward until ends are joined and there is an unbroken square.

We are now ready to "break the wall," and start play. Manner of doing this will be told in tomorrow's article.

Next article: Opening the Wall.

Musical Act Scores At Eastland This Week

An unusually good program is being presented at the Eastland Theatre for the first four days this week if one is to judge by the applause given the bill last night. The photoplay program was headed by the last Gasnier production "POOR MEN'S WIVES" and featuring Barbara La Marr and David Butler is one of the best pictures seen here this season. "Fighting Blood" taken from H. C. Witwer's "Colliers Weekly" stories also met with big success. And then, came the vaudeville act which introduced Sullivan and Mack to Portsmouth theatregoers in an act billed as "Syncope and Supremacy." To say that these two clever artists are good is putting it mildly. Their rendition of both classical and jazz numbers on an instrument which resembles a xylophone was unusually fine and were productive of several encores, while the song numbers by Miss Mack were an instantaneous success. To you people who are looking for a musical act that is different and one that is sure please, take a trip and go hear Sullivan and Mack. The entire program will be seen at the Eastland tonight, tomorrow and Thursday.

Thieves Busy In Jackson;
Several Homes Ransacked

JACKSON, O., Dec. 11.—(Special to Times)—Jackson is living in constant fear of house-breakers, the result of a series of burglaries which occurred over the week end.
On Sunday evening the C. O. Brown residence at Broadway Street, was entered. The family, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Louis I. Brown and Mrs. Dorothy Eldridge, had gone out to spend the evening. About ten o'clock the neighbors discovered some one with a flash light going from room to room, and called the family and police. One man was chased out the back gate and up the alley, but succeeded in getting away. The other probably ran across the garden and out through the garden gate. Nothing has been missed so far, but two hats and some magazines were found at the alley gate.

The same house was robbed early last spring, when valuable jewelry belonging to Miss Eldridge was taken.
On Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Poore were at their grocery store, some one entered their home on South Street, just around the corner from the Brown home. When Mr. and Mrs. Poore came home at ten o'clock they found the doors had been opened and the house ransacked, but only a few trinkets were missing.
Evidently in both cases the thieves were after money and jewelry.
The homes of Harry Shear and Corey Arthur on Chestnut Street, were also entered on Saturday night but only a small amount of money is missing.

Jackson Co. Fox Chase is Success

JACKSON, O., Dec. 11 (Special to Times)—The Southern Ohio Fox Hunters Association held its annual meeting in Jackson county beginning Dec. 4th and continuing the remainder of the week. A great many hunters from various states, and several counties in Ohio, as well as local hunters, attended. Several days as high as 250 people were in attendance. The fox hunters were so well treated in Jackson county last year that they decided to return, and left with even a better impression this year of the hospitality of the people as well as being pleased with the number of foxes and good hunting grounds. On Wednesday evening the Association was entertained at the Cambrian by the Jackson Chamber of Commerce, and Thursday evening by the Wellston Rotary Club, also at the Cambrian.
Among those present from a distance were: Charles Busler, Columbus, I. F. Allen and Ed Risher of Rio Grande; Dr. Geo. B. Nye, of Waverly; J. H. Depew, Kymer, W. Va.; Arthur Beagle and son Arthur, McArthur; R. C. Burgess, Coltonburg, Ky.; Raymond Davis, Lancaster, Ky.; W. B. Stone and R. B. Stone, Lexington, Ky.; Otto Brey, Waverly; John Fisher, Racine; Dr. M. L. Reede, Coalville, Pa.; G. W. MARGARINE NOT A "SUBSTITUTE"

SAY MANUFACTURERS
Is a Fine, Modern Food

Margarine is made and sold in an honest, straightforward fashion in accordance with the best ideals of modern American food production and marketing. It reaches the consumer in a container that is plainly stamped "oleomargarine," so that the customer knows exactly what he is buying. In fact the high character of margarine as a pure, wholesome food is so pronounced that the manufacturers are proud to be identified with their product.
Conscious of the sound ethical basis upon which the industry is operating, the margarine manufacturer naturally resents the constant allusion to his product as a "substitute," "equivalent," or "imitation." The use of the word "butterine" is to be deplored, and gives the impression that margarine seeks to be sold in place of butter and similar product. The manufacturers are as much to blame in this respect as anybody. Most definitions start, "Margarine is a substitute," and even some names follow suit.
Margarine today is a prepared food, but is no more artificial than other food that is prepared by heating, blending and churning. The flavor of margarine pleases the palate of a great number of persons, and its ingredients are the best of their kind, are of known quality and wholesomeness. Modern methods of production are responsible for it being possible to offer margarine to the consumer at a price moderate. It is a common sense food, and is a common sense food to the taste of thousands—hence its wide sale. And its sale is increasing solely on its own merit, without the aid of the product's name or the increase in the use of margarine is witness to its wide acceptance and to its merit as a food and as a shortening. Last year the demand for margarine reached 200,000,000 pounds and large quantities of Jell-O, Kaffee Hag, and the finest brand, represented a large share of the demand. Such a record, made solely on the merit of the product, shows the advantage of doing business with merchandise, and is a crying demand of any desire on the part of the margarine manufacturer to sell his product as a substitute. Holiday

Numerous corporations which had fallen behind in dividends on cumulative preferred stock, voted substantial payments on such back payments.

Regular dividends in December by industrial corporations, it is estimated, will total about $60,000,000, a figure somewhat greater than December, 1922, payments, while railroad dividends will approximate $40,000,000, also a larger sum than the carriers paid a year ago.

Extra or increased payments have been confined to no one branch of industry, but rather have emanated from practically every line of endeavor, indicating that the general run of business was profitable during 1923 despite the period of summer depression. The action taken is accepted also, in financial circles, as conveying the confidence of business leaders in the 1924 outlook.

One of the largest of the extra payments was that authorized by directors of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, who voted an extra cash dividend of $2 and a stock dividend of two per cent in addition to the regular payments due at this time. The extra cash dividend amounted to about $2,500,000.

The Eastman Kodak Company voted an extra dividend of $1.25 on its 2,500,000 shares of no-par-value stock outstanding, amounting to about $3,000,000. This was in addition to the regular quarterly payment, and will be distributed to stockholders January 1, 1924.

Among the large concerns declaring dividends are: Childs Company, E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Company, American Chain Company, Inc., Blaw Knox Company, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, Missouri Portland Cement Company, Stranberg Cartridge Company, International Salt Company, and the Adams Express Company.

Highways and byways leading inland from the wet spots of the coast are under constant patrol by armed operatives scouring the countryside in automobiles.

But the smugglers are resourceful, according to the latest reports received by the New Jersey state police. They are employing an aviator at $150 a trip to fly twice a week over the coast and chart the shifting positions of the vessels.

Ashore, with raiders, aided by bands of hijackers constantly robbing liquor caravans, transportation of liquor has been extremely difficult. The fact that all is not going well in bootlegging is being hammered aloud in almost every coast hamlet.

LOCAL BOY KILLED AT JACKSON

Dennis O'Mara, five and a half year old son of Mrs. Margaret Higgins O'Mara, of 1200 Ninth street, was fatally injured Monday afternoon about 2:45 o'clock when struck and knocked down by an automobile on the Chillicothe-Jackson pike, near Jackson, where he had been making his home with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley G. Sheppard. Death was caused by a fracture of the skull above the right eye. Death came about two hours after the accident and before the mother and other relatives from here could reach his bedside.

The driver of the machine failed to give his name, although he stopped and helped carry the child to the home of the uncle and aunt nearby. The machine carried an Indiana license tag.

"I'm going to put my tricycle in out of the rain," remarked the child to his aunt when he started out into the road to get the plaything. A negro drayman who saw the approaching automobile and realized the danger of an accident yelled at the child, but it was of no avail, the automobile catching the child before he could turn and dash out of the way.

Dr. A. G. Ray, of Jackson, was called to the Sheppard home, but the little one was beyond human aid. Relatives here were notified by long-distance telephone as soon as the physician announced that the injury was perhaps fatal.

Besides the grief-stricken mother, a sister, Lena, about 8 years old survives. The mother and daughter live with her brother-in-law, Lovell Dixon, at 1200 Ninth street. The accident victim was a son of

M. P. and Mrs. Margaret O'Mara, former residents of Mabert road. Lovell Dixon and Selton Higgins, of 1200 Ninth street, are uncles of the child. Mr. Higgins accompanied the mother to Jackson last night.

The body of the child will be brought home this evening over the B. and O., and will be taken to the Richards funeral parlor, Ninth and Walter streets.

Plan Attack On Tampico—VERA CRUZ, December 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The gumbato Zaragoza is prepared to sail for Tampico to assist in the attack on that city which is to be undertaken by the troops of Governor Lopez. De Lara of Tamaulipas in conjunction with troops commanded by General Panuncio Martinez.

Advices received here say that Colera, in the state of Guanajuato, north of Mexico City, has fallen into the hands of rebels.

A radio message from the headquarters of General Enrique Estrada, commander of the western forces, says advance on the capital from this direction is continuing.

Meanwhile, troops are leaving Vera Cruz for the point of concentration from which the march on the capital from the east is to be started. This advance will be along the line of the Mexican railway.

Strict Censorship Established—EL PASO, TEXAS, December 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Disruption of communication with the interior of Mexico and application of a strict censorship have permitted but little information of what is happening in the uprising by supporters of Venustiano Carranza, presidential candidate, against the government of President Alvaro Obregon, to seep through to El Paso and other border points, although a number of interesting sidelights are revealed.

The British government has informed the reparations commission that American experts should participate in the inquiry.

"The German government also has brought the matter to the attention of this government stating that it would be much appreciated if an American expert were to participate in the work of the first committee as above proposed, as it is believed that in this way important progress could be made toward the solution of the problems underlying economic recovery."

Although no final determination has been reached, it is the view of officials here that one American expert will sit on both committees.

Harrison is being tried for alleged misrepresentation of the Dillings Company, of Ohio, a subsidiary of the Dillings Company, to prospective stockholders.

SIX YEAR OLD BOY ACCIDENTALLY KILLED BY BROTHER

Martin Stidham, six-year-old son of Charles Stidham, of Scioto Furnace, was shot and almost instantly killed about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when a shotgun in the hands of his older brother, Haskell, about 16 years of age, was accidentally discharged.

Both barrels of the gun were discharged, the contents tearing a gaping hole in the boy's abdomen. He only lived about ten minutes. Dr. J. S. Stevens, of South Webster, was called, but he reached the home some time after the youthful victim had died.

The shooting occurred in the Stidham home, the family being well-known in the Scioto Furnace community. The older brother, who had the gun in his hands, had just returned from a rabbit hunt

Mrs. Clark was a member of the First Evangelical church.

Miss Mattie Clark Word was received last night that death had claimed Miss Mattie Clark at her rooming house in Columbus. Relatives left at once to bring the remains back to the city. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Clark, of 2317 Vinton avenue.

Miss Clark, after working about two years in the Irving Drew shoe factory, went to Columbus, where she had been employed in a shoe factory about three years. Last Saturday she was taken suddenly ill and relatives here were notified. A sister, Miss Hazel Clark, visited her Sunday, and when she returned home her sister's condition was not thought to be serious. Word of the death came as a distinct shock to relatives and friends.

Miss Clark was about 24 years of age and was born near Lucasville, where the family lived for a number of years, moving to this city in October. Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Clark, a brother, Charles, at home, and five sisters, Hazel, Sarah, Mary and Opal, at home, and Mrs. Pearl Miller, of Candy Run, near Lucasville. The body is expected to arrive here tonight.

starting of work and many business men were on hand to take part in the program which included the handling of the first spadeful of dirt by Alan, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Hurth, and the turning over

Mrs. Myrtle Gibbs and her mother, Mrs. Mary Runner, 1228 Front street, appeared before Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Tuesday morning and pleaded not guilty to eighteen separate indictments returned against them by the recent grand jury charging larceny and receiving stolen property. The two defendants were released on $1,000 bond each, pending trial which will not be held until after the first of the new year. Prosecutor Skelton stated.

The charges against the pair grew out of an investigation by the police last September which resulted in the finding of hundreds of dollars worth of wearing apparel and other articles of merchandise, in the Runner home at the Front street address, claimed to have been stolen from local stores.

Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Runner will be defended by Attorney Horace L. Small.

COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVE REACHES $35,000

Voluntary contributions to the amount of more than $2,000 have been received at Community Chest headquarters since the report was made yesterday noon, according to Adam Frick, of the Chamber of Commerce.

This brings the total vote above $35,000 and the committee is hopeful of its reaching a much higher figure. Several big business concerns whose 1923 budgets are virtually exhausted at this time of year are pledging from their 1924 budgets.

The committee wishes to state that in making the lists of donors from the pledge cards and then copying these lists for publication there is a possibility of error and no injustice is intended when amounts are wrong. The committee merely desires that the public know of the generosity of Portsmouth citizens. In the list published yesterday the amount subscribed by the Brandeis book store was listed as $10, whereas this firm gave four times that amount. Names of additional donors follow:

Motorcyclist Injured When Machine Crashed Into Truck

A broken leg and concussion of the brain were suffered by Andrew Johnson, 19, steelworker, of 1715 Valley street, North Moreland addition, back of New Boston, about ten o'clock Monday night when his motorcycle crashed into the rear of a Daimler-Benz truck on Galpin Pike about three miles beyond the Scioto county line.

Johnson was driving back to Portsmouth from a visit in Charleston, W. Va. Lights from an automobile coming from the west blinded Johnson and he failed to see the truck ahead of him on the pike. Sheriff Dement of Trouton investigated the accident and claims the Words Lead To Blows Between Capt. Phillips And Walter Evans; No Arrests Are Made

Tenth and Chillicothe streets was the scene of a noisy early last evening between Captain W. H. Phillips, of the Salvation Army, and Walter Evans, of the soft drink parlor at 1021 Chillicothe street, almost opposite from the Salvation Army headquarters.

KAH-PATTERSON PRINTING CO. BUYS UPTOWN SITE; WILL ERECT A MODERN BUILDING

An important real estate deal, which ultimately will result in the erection of another modern building for Portsmouth, was closed Tuesday when The Kah-Patterson Printing company, Second and Court streets, purchased Mrs. Mary Brown's properties on the south side of Fifth street and just west of the brick garage.

There is a two story frame house and a two story brick house on the lot and they will later on give way to a fireproof building, which will house the plant of The Kah-Patterson company. The dimensions of the two lots are 62 by 107, the site centrally located and it will give this progressive firm an ideal home in which to look after its growing business.

"It is our intention to put up a strictly fireproof building, which will meet our needs for years to come," George Kah, head of the company, stated Tuesday. Other members of this firm are John and Oscar Kah.

George A. Kah first started in the printing business in the McFarland property on Second street, west of Court street. Later on he moved across into a two story building formerly occupied by Doerr Bros. Later Mr. Kah moved to the Powers property on Chillicothe street near Fifth. In 1904 he located at Second and Court streets and in 1907 the Kah-Patterson company was incorporated, Walter K. Patterson, now of Cleveland withdrawing from the company a year later. Since 1908 the firm has been expanding step-by-step until now it has one of the most complete printing establishments in Southern Ohio. Service and quality have always been their strongest assets.

Mr. Kah stated today that the firm has been cramped for space for some time and no time would be lost in having plans prepared for their new uptown home. He is recognized as one of the city's most capable business men and with the able assistance of John and Oscar Kah the firm has forged rapidly to the front, its equipment being second to none.

Mrs. Brown, who sold the property, lives in Washington, D. C., and is one of the Baker heirs. Negotiations for the sale were handled by Clark and Goodman and the consideration was $20,000.

Separate Court To Hear The Traffic Violations

CINCINNATI, O., December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—The establishment of a distinct court for the hearing of automobile traffic violation cases probably will be in operation here before the end of the week, as a result of the conference called by Mayor Carr with other city officials and judges of the Municipal Court.

The conference was held late yesterday and it was said, that while the discussion at times was stormy, the meeting ended harmoniously.

It was stated the conference were satisfied the police have the crime situation here well in hand.

Evans today claims that the trouble was brought about by Captain Phillips making a remark about him as he passed and which he considered a slur. "I was diverted from my wife and the man said something about me not taking care of my family," Evans said today. He also claimed that Captain Phillips got up and ran after he had knocked him down and that he tried to catch him to continue the scrap. Evans says Captain Phillips struck him across the arm with a piece of wood picked up in the street.

Gifts For Men

The man to whom you want to give something that he will appreciate, and use, may be well supplied with wearing apparel, but what about a gift that he can use for years, every day and constantly remind him of the person who was so thoughtful. Here are a few just such kind of gifts that last.

A WATCH—One of these fine timekeepers in small size, thin model, with fancy dial, in white gold, green gold or red gold cases. Prices ranging from $15 to $55.

A CHAIN—For his watch, the kind that you can attach a charm or pencil or gold knife. A belt chain made especially for the trouser pocket. He may have a chain, but is it modern, or one he received many years ago. We show you splendid assortment. Prices $1.00 to $20.

A PEN OR PENCIL—Something he uses every day, not a large gift, but useful, that's what men appreciate. Fountain Pens, self filling, range from $1.75 to $8.00. Pencils $1.50 to $5.00. We show a wonderful display of pens.

CUFF BUTTONS—He may have a pair, but he can use another pair, especially those that are practical to fit in the cuffs. We have them in gold, silver, gold filled, ranging from $1.00 to $25. We have the "Come Apart" button which he cannot lose from the sleeve.

To Urge Presbyterians To Stand By Their Faith

PHILADELPHIA, December 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Copies of a declaration urging Presbyterians throughout the country to stand by their church's confession of faith and denouncing rationalistic teachings in Presbyterian pulpits were being prepared today for mailing to every minister and elder of that denomination in the United States. The declaration was adopted last night at a meeting of more than 1,000 ministers and elders of Presbyterian churches in Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey. It asserted that any man who denied the doctrines of the confession of faith or was in serious doubt with the "facts of the new testament," had no place in the Presbyterian ministry. Speaking of Presbyterians who doubt the virgin birth of Jesus, the declaration said: "The fundamental of the faith, Dr. Walter D. Buchanan, of the Broadway Presbyterian Church of New York, said: 'I don't see how one of these men, if he is honest, can stay in a church when his confessional vows take him to the Westminster confession of faith. There is only one way out for these brethren: Let them get out.'"

Minford Institute Sets Mark For Attendance

With an attendance that broke all records for attendance at Farmers' Institutes in this county, the annual Farmers' Institute at Minford opened Monday morning with a session of talks and music. There were 358 present Monday morning and 370 present in the afternoon. Last night the auditorium was packed. The Institute closed with the morning and afternoon sessions today, which were as well attended as those of yesterday. The Institute sessions are held in the spacious auditorium of the new Minford high school.

Monday night's program proved to be one of the best community gatherings ever held in that section of the county.

The Minford band furnished music. Miss Pearl Dorsey, of Mountville, W. Va., one of the two Institute lecturers, made an interesting talk, a silver trophy cup was presented the Food Club of that section and through the use of the radio the gathering heard President Coolidge talk on the Harding Memorial Fund.

Miss Dorsey, who is an experienced rural community worker, took for her subject last night "For a Better Community," a topic assigned to her for Tuesday afternoon. For at Poole installed a radio set and as soon as it was announced that President Coolidge would speak, all other activity on the program was called off temporarily. The radio lecture proved a very entertaining diversion from the usual program of talks and music.

The Willing Workers' Food Club, with Mrs. Lucy Fullerton leader, was presented with the trophy cup they won this year, the presentation being made by David Bennett, president of the Farm Bureau. The club won the cup in 1921 and last year and will have to win it only once more before it becomes their property. Chester Strong of McConnellsville, the other Institute lecturer, spoke last night on "Young Life in Its Relation To The Farm."

Tuesday morning Mr. Strong spoke on "Livestock Feeding, Feeds and the Feeder." County Farm Agent W. F. Gabm had for his subject "Comparison Between Legume and Non-Legume Feed." "Woman's Place in the Farm Bureau" was the subject discussed by Miss Dorsey. Mrs. Gaylord Preston of near Lucasville spoke on "My Experience With Farm Bureau Products." Election of officers was held a time close of the morning meeting.

"The Community and the School" was the subject of Prof. A. B. Jones' talk at the start of the final session this afternoon. Mr. Strong took for his subject "Present Day Tendencies of Farm Marketing." Lewis Lang of this county spoke on "My Experience in Potato Marketing."

Monday morning, the opening meeting, was a school session with all schools in the district dismissed so that all pupils could attend. A short program of song was followed by invocation by Rev. R. L. Holland of the Minford M. E. church, after which County School Superintendent E. O. McCowan made a short talk complimenting the Minford school patrons on the splendid new high school just completed. "Winter Ways of Wood Folks" was the subject of Mr. Strong's address. Miss Dorsey spoke on "The Farm." In the afternoon Miss Dorsey spoke on "The Present-Day Girl." "The Place of the Dairy Cow in the Hills" was Mr. Strong's topic. Corwin Knowles, manager of the Washington Jersey Farm, followed Mr. Strong with a talk on "Improving the Dairy Herd by Selective Breeding."

A corn show for men, a home baking contest for women, a bird house contest for boys and a candy making contest for girls is being conducted in connection with the Institute.

Tonight, following the Institute, a comedy playlet, "The Farmerette," will be presented in the high school auditorium by Minford high school pupils.

Discovery of "Other Husband" Forces Them To Separate

EAU CLAIRE, WIS., December 11.—(By The Associated Press.)—Ross R. Richardson, second husband of Mrs. Leona Sallstad-Richardson, is domiciled in the Eau Claire Hotel while she will occupy the Richardson home until they can re-arrange their domestic relations as necessitated by the discovery that Edward J. Sallstad, her first husband, was not killed when the destroyed his summer cottage three and a half years ago. Sallstad was arrested last week at Napa, Calif., with Dorothy Anderson, his stenographer, when he was the president of a phonograph manufacturing company here, and both will be returned to Superior, Wis., to face arson charges.

Until last night Mrs. Sallstad-Richardson had maintained that the man taken at Napa was "planted" by insurance companies who are contesting her claim to approximately $70,000 life insurance on her first husband. Then newspaper men showed her a picture of the California prisoner and she tearfully realized that she was married to two men.

"It's Ed. There's no doubt about it," she exclaimed.

Comforted by Richardson, they retreated to a secluded corner for a ten-minute conference and then announced to newspaper men and officials that they would discontinue to live as man and wife until Sallstad could be divorced and sufficient time elapse to permit a remarriage to Richardson.

A few minutes later Richardson packed a hand bag and departed for the hotel. County authorities had announced that unless Mrs. Sallstad quitted her second husband when it was proved to her that Sallstad lives, she would be charged with bigamy.

Sallstad confessed upon arrest that he had fired the summer home after he had placed therein the body of Allen McPhee, his friend, which had been buried a few days previously. He said it was announced by the California authorities that he was in financial straits and in love with Miss Anderson.

Discussing Sallstad's act of dressing McPhee's body in his own clothing before placing it in the cottage, Mrs. Sallstad-Richardson declared that "Ed had considerable experience in handling corpses. Ed's place of business was right next door to an undertaking establishment and Ed often helped with embalming bodies."

mutter of principle and not by any personal feelings.

"They don't feel," he said, "that the presiding officer of the senate, who has the duties of a vice president to perform, should at the same time be chairman of the interstate commerce commission. Every senator knows that one man cannot properly fill these two important posts."

Senator Brookhart of Iowa, one of the La Follette supporters, declared the country was opposed to the transportation act, and that he was "voting for the best man for chairman to bring about its repeal."

Cleveland

Re-appointment of the 1924 delegates also promised a flurry in view of protests, chiefly by members from southern states whose delegations are to be reduced. The re-appointment plan calls for 1,036 delegates in the 1924 convention as compared with 984 in 1920, with increases given states where Republican strength was shown in the last election.

A banquet to the committee is to be given tonight by Chairman Adams, at which the women associate members will be present. The list of speakers includes Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania; Raymond Robins, of Chicago; Pat Sullivan, Wyoming's picturesque committeeman; Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, of Ohio, vice chairman of the National Committee, and Mrs. H. L. Livermore, of New York.

The National Committee was opened by Chairman Adams with a brief address in eulogy of President Harding. Referring to the outstanding events of Mr. Harding's two and one-half years in office he mentioned limitation of naval armaments, reorganization of the national finances, and post-war adjustments.

"In your heart, the courageous mind that the kindly force that brought these blessings about, are at rest," said Chairman Adams. "They almost had to die, so freely were they expended. Warren Harding is not with us today in the mortal form, but the glow of his personality, the purity of his patriotism and the high example of unselfishness devoted to national needs, linger everywhere about. They are here in this room. They abound throughout the entire governmental structure."

Forty-nine national committeemen and forty-two associate committee women were present at the opening of today's session.

On the nomination of Committee-man Mulvane, of Kansas, George B. Lockwood, of Indiana, was elected secretary of the committee. It has been filling by appointment the unexpired term of Clarence B. Miller. Appointments to nine vacancies in the committee, previously announced, were ratified.

Senator Willis, of Ohio, who nominated President Harding at the Chicago convention of 1920, delivered a eulogy of the late president and sounded a pre-convention keynote, saying that the party must ever stand for the causes for which Mr. Harding indirectly gave his life.

"It may as well be understood," then party stands, as Warren G. Harding stood, for the constitution and the United States and not for any of the various proposals advanced by so-called reformers who could like nothing better than to see it torn to tatters. I refer for one thing to the proposals now pending to substitute the transitory power of congress for the power of our courts.

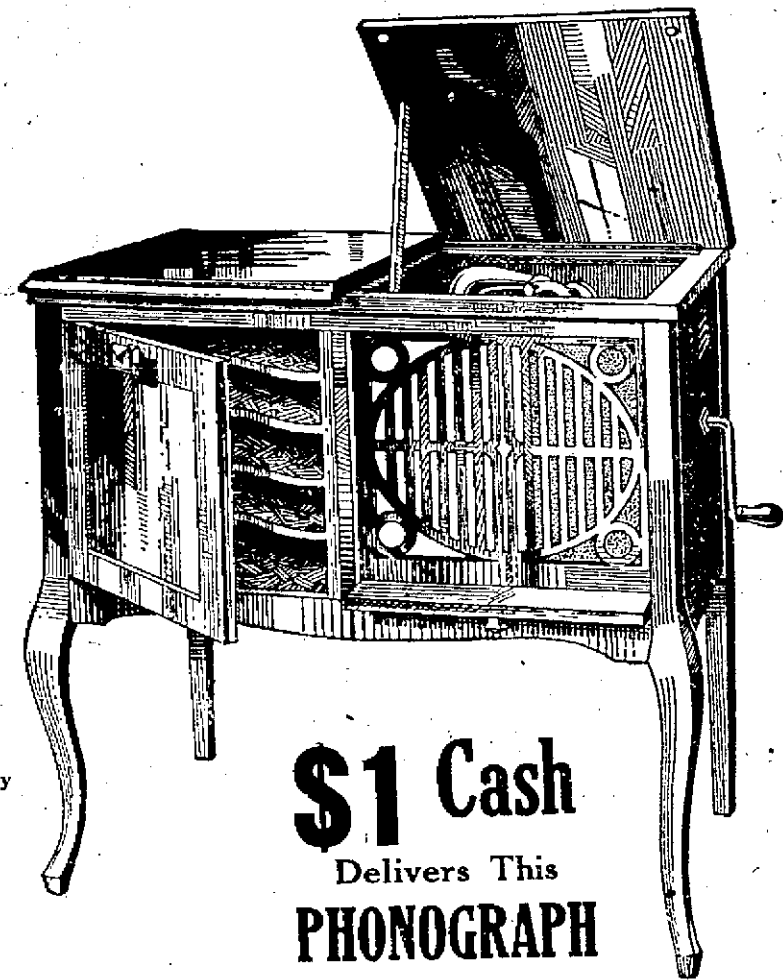

"It may as well be understood that while the Republican party is in charge of this government, there will be no cancellation of the debts owed to the people of this country by foreign governments. They are just debts and will have to be paid."

"While the Republican party is in control of this government, the United States will continue to help Europe as it has helped Europe, but it will reserve to itself the exclusive right to determine when it shall help, when it shall help and when it shall stop helping. The people of the United States are not going to furnish a policeman and meat ticket to all of Europe and Asia without making their own decision in the matter."

If some world court could be worked out which would be clearly dissociated from, not a part of, and solely removed from the influence of the League of Nations, I would support such a court."

"When Warren G. Harding took office, 5,000,000 men were out of jobs, but prosperity has been revived and they are at work. Where do you get men now the problem? Based on this prosperity, congress is now about to undertake a substantial reduction in taxes to the American people. This is the legacy of the leadership of Warren G. Harding."

Ohio Conference Teams Adopt Schedules

COLUMBUS, Dec. 11.—Should Western and Ohio Wesleyan demonstrate their superiority over other Ohio Conference football teams in 1924 as they did during the past season, the result would again be a victory for Wesleyan, who were defeated by Wooster with eight, for the schedule of each team, drafted at yesterday's Ohio Conference meeting here, is practically the same as that of 1923. No game between Wooster and Wesleyan was scheduled.

Wesleyan, according to Coach George Gauthier, was desirous of scheduling more conference games, but was unable to find teams which would play the Delaware team. Gauthier said he had asked practically every school in the conference, including Wooster, for games and was refused. "The situation generally was regarded the outgrowth of a year ago, although inability to find a place on their schedules was given by most coaches as their reason for not playing Wesleyan."

St. Xavier also had trouble obtaining games, three with Otterbein, Kenyon and Wittenberg. Being all that Coach Joe Meyer was able to schedule definitely. He was able to place on the Wesleyan schedule, however, Akron and Ohio Northern also had some trouble in finding conference opponents, as did Baldwin-Wallace, a new member of the conference.

Case, tall-order in the 1923 race, had all teams in number of games scheduled, nine conference contests being listed. For the first time in more than two decades the schedule will not meet Michigan. Most of the teams scheduled seven games, but Wooster and Oberlin had eight.

The difficulties encountered in drafting the schedules had a reflection in the suggestion advanced by George Trautman, assistant athletic director at Ohio State. He submitted a plan for the scheduling of the games on a four-year basis, under direction of a schedule committee. The plan would entail the division of the conference into two sections and would require each team in each section to meet every other team in its section twice in each four years. The plan was turned over to a committee for consideration.

The organization also took opportunity of reiterating its stand against the hiring of officials who are professional gamblers. A ruling providing that any official who played or officiated in a professional game in any one season should be ineligible to work in a conference game during the next, was adopted. Previously a motion that the former rule containing a similar provision be abrogated was declared lost when the vote on it stood 10 to 10.

Dates for track and field events for 1924 were set during the meeting. The big six track meet will be held on May 20-21 at either Delaware or Granville, instead of Columbus, and the conference tournament set for June 6-7 at Columbus. Ohio State also announced a new event, the Ohio relay games, which will be held at Ohio Stadium April 13.

Lots of Chatter at Baseball Meeting, But Few Trades

CHICAGO, December 11.—After one hectic day of fleeting rumors and few accomplishments, professional baseball league officials today settled down to the second of their week's sessions with a more definite program of work before them.

Amid talk of big player trades, deals involving managers and schedules, the various league officers and the board of arbitration of the National Association of Minor Leagues got down to action.

As a consequence of an announcement, Eddie Collins, premier second baseman of the American League and captain of the Chicago White Sox, judges himself on the market, either for sale or trade. It is reported that he may become manager of the Washington club for the 1924 season, but Clark Griffith, president of that club, declined to make a flat statement, either of affirmation or negation.

Six meetings were held yesterday by the National League, the Southern Association and the International League, were the only organizations accomplishing any business.

Attendance records, use of baseballs, home runs and pitching methods were before the National League. President Heydler said that the past year broke all attendance records for the National League.

The league decided that pitchers will have to get along as last season, without the use of resin or other foreign substances. An attempt to remove that restriction was unsuccessful. There also was discussion of a proposal by President Baker of Philadelphia to prevent home runs on balls that bound into the bleachers. Action was deferred while President Heydler attempts to make a ruling covering fields where disputes on that question arise.

A committee was named by the National League to see that the 1925 season is properly conducted as the fifteenth anniversary of the organization. The meeting also passed a resolution deploring the death of William Donovan, who was killed in the wreck of the Twentieth Century Limited Sunday.

A schedule of 168 games was voted by the International League with the season in 1924 opening April 16.

George Sisler and Babe Ruth were voted awards for their distinguished playing in 1922 and 1923, but the nature of the awards was left to President Johnson's decision.

While rumors of important trades ran into the hundreds, only two actual deals were announced. They involved Max Bishop, star second baseman of the Baltimore Orioles, who was purchased by Connie Mack of the Athletics

Coaches In Row; One Assaulted

TOLEDO, O., December 11.—During an altercation between faculty representative Fred L. Siebert, Jr., of Scott High School, Toledo, and a group of Washington High School officials of Cedar Rapids, Ia., over the sum guaranteed Iowa school for the intersectional football game played here Saturday, Leo Novak, coach of the Iowa eleven, attacked and roughly handled Siebert in a hotel here, according to a statement by William Kirk, graduate manager of Scott today.

While Siebert and Kirk of Scott, and Faculty Manager M. A. Carlson, Graduate Manager Hines of Cedar Rapids, and Novak were discussing the agreement which brought Washington High to Toledo, Novak is said by Kirk to have struck Siebert, knocking him to the floor. No arrests were made, but Siebert stated positively that no athletic relations would be considered by Scott with any school employing Novak as coach.

The teams met on an agreement reached at a meeting in Chicago, that Cedar Rapids should receive $5,000 for the game and if the crowd reached 10,000 an additional $2,500 would be added to them. The money turned over to Carlson amounted to $7,500. The trouble arose when Carlson, Hines and Novak made demand upon Siebert for additional money, claiming that Siebert had misled them as to the seating capacity of Scott Stadium.

The crowd was estimated at 20,000 and the receipts of the game at $30,000.
